

Renata Cebular

The freehand drawings of Renata Cebular are simultaneously simple and complex. In artistic technique and materials a minimalist nature dominates; Cebular has discovered the possibility of doing more with simplicity and she works without the aid of preparatory sketches or templates, Cebular creates sweeping lines in ball-point pen and colored pencil, flowing strokes that generate a menagerie of fields and shapes. The resulting patterns are rich and intricate, a series of juxtaposed and overlapping figures reminiscent of vegetal and cellular motifs. Ultimately the images are abstract, but they appear to be in motion, energized by a depth and precision that leaves them virtually animate. This intimation of activity combined with Cebular's use of vibrant color causes select forms to show vividly against a darker background, suggesting a sense of playfulness and optimism. As Cebular states, her works underscore "the joy that colors and forms may evoke."

Originally from Croatia, Renata Cebular lives and works in Regensdorf near Zurich, Switzerland.
